

Bad Spells

"I suffered, during girlhood, from womanly weakness," writes Mrs. Mollie Navy, of Walnut, N. C. "At last, I was almost bed-ridden, and had to give up. We had three doctors. All the time, I was getting worse. I had bad spells, that lasted from 7 to 28 days. In one week, after I gave Cardui a trial, I could eat, sleep, and joke, as well as anybody. In 8 weeks, I was well. I had been an invalid for 5 weary years! Cardui relieved me, when everything else failed."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Getting the Best of a Book Agent.

The agent for a handsomely illustrated book to be sold on a long-time credit—a feast to the intellectual and an adornment to any library—leaned against the side of the house caught his breath, clinched his fist, and looked skyward.

"What's the matter?" asked a policeman.
"I've met the meanest man," he answered. "I've heard of him, and I've read about him in papers, but I never expected to meet him face to face."
"Where is he?"
"Up in that building."
"How do you know he's the meanest man?"

"By the way he acted. I showed him this work of art, lectured on it for half an hour, pointed out the engravings, and when I hinted it would be a good thing to order, what do you think he said?"
"I don't know."
"He said he never bought books. He didn't have to. He just waited for some idiot of an agent to come along and tell him all that was in 'em, and turn over the leaves while he looked at the pictures. Nice isn't it?"—Epworth Herald.

Credit and Mortgage System Ruinous.

The ruinous credit and mortgage system is getting in its work in the South now at a cost of millions of dollars a day. During the past ten days wagons loaded with cotton have gone to town in steady streams. The owners of the cotton didn't want to sell below cost of production, but obligations were to be met and rather than let their credit suffer, they have made the sacrifice. Those who had made their crops under an iniquitous crop-lien system, which is a disgrace to civilization and a curse to Southern farmers, had the chains fastened around them and it was not a matter of choice with them—the cotton had to go, regardless of price, when lien-note became due. And in face of the fact that certain town and city publications have been attempting to create the impression, for the past two years, that farmers are just rolling in wealth and luxury, it is appalling to know the real situation as it is. And most of the farm lands in this State, in some counties, have already been gobbled up by the creditor classes in towns and cities and tenants live where homeowners ought to live. Since land values have increased these leisure credited classes in the towns and cities refuse to sell at any reasonable price, making it impossible for the tenant classes to become homeowners. They can scarcely make a decent living and pay the usual extortionate time prices for their supplies, much less to meet payments on high-priced land.—From Carolina Union Farmer.
